

Megan McGill:

“My fondest memory in the Theatre Department would be meeting some of my best friends -- people with extraordinary compassion and charisma. I'll cherish the laughter we shared forever. I would tell someone coming into the dept. as a minor to totally go for it! I officially became a minor my last semester of college, and I think that you should always make time for the things you love. Life is too short not to invest in your own happiness, no matter what your scholastic pursuits are.”

After Pitt, I'm going to be joining a quantitative analysis training team. I hope to always remember that STEM and empathy do not (and should not) be mutually exclusive! I'll always think on my time here at Pitt with extreme gratitude for the experiences I've been privileged with having. I appreciate every person who has taken time to learn my name, extend me kindness, or laugh at a joke of mine even if it wasn't really all that funny.”
