

Airen Lowenstein:

Fondest Memory: “My voice and movement 1 class a few semesters ago. Got to finals time and what we were doing resulted in multiple screaming sessions in the studio theatre, and a few witch circles.”

What I would tell an incoming minor: “Try and take the studio classes! (Stagecraft, props, costume production, makeup). They're really fun, teach really nice skills you can use outside the classroom and throughout life. I enjoyed them far more compared to just lecture only classes!”

Where am I going: “Career. A lot of the careers I'm looking at are high stress, such as medical fields and such. The theatre classes, especially my studio ones, will help me deal with that stress by being able to use the skills from costume production and stagecraft to wind down and release stress by being creative and crafting! (I'm a cosplayer, so they really help me with one of my huge hobbies/loves)”

How will I remember my time: “Fondly. All the theatre students, staff and professors are so kind, and really loved supporting my creative juices. Every time I use the skills I learned in my classes, I can remember my time.”
