

Peyton Moriarity:

“Being a Theatre Arts minor at Pitt taught me the fundamentals of theatrical storytelling, history, and production. After graduation, I am planning on moving to Los Angeles to pursue my career in entertainment marketing. My involvement in Pitt Stages productions taught me how to behave in a working theatre. I’m grateful for the memories I’ve made in the department like getting to take classes and work on productions with some of my good friends. Being a minor I was able to incorporate Theatre Arts into my studies and extracurricular activities while also pursuing another career path.”
